Illustrations of Torture Methods:

The toothbrushes used in the actual tortures have much flatter handles than the ones in the photographs. The perpetrators insert a toothbrush with a flat handle between two of the victim's fingers. One perpetrator makes sure that the tortured practitioner's fingers clench the toothbrush firmly while another perpetrator uses both hands to keep rotating the toothbrush until all the flesh in contact with the toothbrush is abraded to the point where the finger bones are exposed. Mr. Cheng Wei 成为 was subjected to this torture while being detained in the Second Division of the Tuanhe Labor Camp in Beijing.

The torturers at the forced labor camps often bind detained Falun Gong practitioners to a ladder, forcing them to "sit parallel on the ladder" for extended periods of time. Not having access to a ladder, we demonstrated the torture using a board instead. The perpetrators seal practitioners' mouths with tape to muffle their agonizing cries. They also bind practitioners' hands behind their backs and use the tape to force their heads forward with their chins against their chests. Jiang Wenlai, the Head of the Second Division and Ni Zhenxiong often use this method to torture practitioners.
